

HON. DAVID C. LEE
Judge, Alameda County Superior Court
(Retired)

JUDICIAL BACKGROUND

Judge Lee has served the Alameda County court system for well over thirty years. Beginning as a Research Attorney for the probate court in 1970, he was elevated to Commissioner of that court three years later. After serving as the probate commissioner for the next nine years, in 1982 he was elected to the Superior Court bench in 1982, and reelected in several subsequent elections.

Prior to his retirement in 2003, Judge Lee has had a variety of assignments during his twenty-year tenure on the Superior Court. Assigned to a civil trial calendar immediately after his initial election to the Superior Court bench, it was here that Judge Lee first discovered his innate ability to resolve matters. Also recognized by his peers for his settlement talents, Judge Lee was asked to continue to do civil settlements once a week during the entire course of a nine-year criminal appointment as the Law and Motion judge.

For the past eight years, Judge Lee's reputation has grown as he effectively managed a calendar of 350 plus of cases while serving as one of the courts case management judges. Named Trial Judge of the Year in 1999 by the Alameda Contra Costa Trial Lawyers Association, he found that the key to his success on the bench was his ability to manage his caseload through the early resolution of innumerable matters.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

During his extensive judicial career, Judge Lee has tried cases within the entire spectrum of civil litigation including: Asbestos, Business Litigation, Discrimination (i.e. age, gender, race, sexual orientation), Environmental (i.e. toxic torts and clean-up), Real Estate, Bad Faith, Intellectual Property and Trade Infringement, Product Liability, Malpractice (i.e. legal, medical), Unfair Business Practices, Insurance Coverage and Personal Injury. He was even assigned by the Chief Justice to be the California State Coordination Judge for a Business and Professions Code §17200 toxic product case (which he settled).

As the Case Management judge, he was responsible for conducting settlement conferences on all types of subject matter before the court. He also has tried several hundred matters covering all aspects of probate and probate related issues while serving both as commissioner and judge.
